Shareholder agreements - why your company needs one

A shareholder agreement sets out the business owners' rights and obligations and processes for resolving disputes. The Grill'd case illustrates the potential pitfalls of not having a shareholder

Estate Planning: What is an estate plan?

An estate plan involves more than signing a Will and storing it in a 'safe place'. Estate planning requires a holistic approach in consideration of a person's present circumstances and his or her foreseeable

Courts examine your intentions when entering into "agreement"

A case involving an aspiring rugby league player and his employer, the Manly Warringah Sea Eagles illustrates when Courts will go behind the written terms of an agreement or chain of correspondence to consider agreement in place.

Staff Update

Bianca Cobby has recently joined Tait & Co as a solicitor.

Bianca completed her law degree (with distinction) at Murdoch University, before being admitted as a barrister and solicitor of the Supreme Court of Western Australia at the start of 2018. Her interests include commercial law, employment law, intellectual property, and estate planning.

Due to her fascination with legal theory, Bianca has been secretary of the Western Australia Legal Theory Association since November 2015.

Bianca previously spent just over 5 years working as a personal trainer, and appreciates how important it is to incorporate fitness into a busy working life. In her spare time, Bianca enjoys reading, online multiplayer gaming, hiking, engaging in policy debates, and doing Cross-Fit.
